

Student Code of Conduct

This code of conduct describes the standards of expected conduct and behaviour while you are studying here. The code supports our values as a company and as an education institution.

As a student at Flight One School of Engineering, you are expected to:

- Work and study safely, ensuring this is the highest priority in every action you take
- Conduct yourself as a professional by displaying professionalism, integrity, honesty, respect, and patience when dealing with staff and fellow students, and our other customers, suppliers and contractors
- Treat all students and staff fairly with proper regard for their rights and obligations, as you yourself would want to be treated.
- Support equity and diversity (discrimination and/or harassment are not tolerated under any circumstances)
- Maintain a professional standard of personal appearance, grooming, and hygiene and adhere to our uniform policy
- Be proud of your own assessment work and do not plagiarise, cheat or collude with other students – in accordance with our Assessment Integrity Policy
- Comply with our Acceptable use of ICT resources policy
- Attend meetings as required to discuss your course progress, academic performance and/or conduct
- Follow any reasonable direction from a staff member
- Comply with all lawful regulations and our policies and procedures
- Not make public statements or representations on behalf of Flight One unless specifically permitted to do so (for example, to the media or on social media)
- Comply with the Civil Aviation Safety Regulations including those relating to use of drugs and alcohol. This also includes random testing conducted by CASA or their authorised agents.
